Patrolman reassigned

Newspaper allegations a setup, judge claims

By ELLIS CUEVAS
and RICH ADAMS
Hancock County District Three Justice Court Judge Lloyd Anderson said Tuesday he is the victim of a "setup" and is being used as a "scapegoat to abolish the Justice Court judicial system."

Anderson denied any wrongdoing in connection with allegations of irregularities in the administration of his court made earlier this week in a copyrighted story by the Clarion-Ledge, a Jackson daily newspaper.

In the meantime, Mississippi Highway Patrolman Raybourn Silkwood Tuesday was placed on limited duty by Interim Public Safety Commissioner
Don Butler.

Butler said Silkwood, a District Eight officer, has been assigned radio duty pending outcome of a Patrol investigation of allegations in the Clarion-Ledge story Silkwood has been in collusion with Anderson in operation of "a veritable one-man speed trap along I-10 in Hancock County."

"This is to treat him fairly and to treat the public fairly while the investigation is going on," Butler said.

Silkwood Monday defended his issuance of a record number of traffic citations and also denied any wrongdoing in connection with allegations he illegally channeled speeding cases outside District Three to Anderson.

The Jackson newspaper said in the 12-month period of 1979 Silkwood wrote almost 8,000 tickets, some 11 times the average number written by other highway patrolmen and the record number written that year by a highway patrol officer.

More than half of those citations called for the defendant to appear before Anderson, the newspaper said, even though many were written along portions of the highway outside Anderson's jurisdiction.

The report in the Clarion-Ledge
further alleges:

—Motorists paid $33 fines when Anderson's records, filed with the Hancock County Supervisors, show he collected only $31 from the motorists;

—Anderson collected a $10 handling fee from the supervisors on tickets which apparently were never issued to motorists.

—In at least one instance, Anderson

County commission finds most Diamondhead roads substandard

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
Hancock County Planning Commission Attorney John Scaife Jr.
informed the County Board of Supervisors Wednesday morning that most of the roads in the Diamondhead Community would not meet standards if the county were to assume responsibility for the roads.

Scaife also presented the board with a map, at a 9 a.m. recess meeting, indicating the present condition of roads in the development.

"Would the roads be adequate if the county took over maintenance?"

Supervisor James Travirca asked Scaife.

"Engineer Don Murray was authorized by the planning commission to conduct a study of roads in Diamondhead and he told us a majority of the roads would be unacceptable.
This is because over the past seven or eight years, since they were originally built, the roads have deteriorated," Scaife responded.

"The survey was done after some members of the Diamondhead Community appeared at a commission meeting complaining about the condition of streets in their area several months ago," Scaife stated.

"This map shows which roads are paved and the condition they're in. This is in case these roads are thrown into our lap," Scaife said.

Unusual pipe cargo to move through port

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission Director Wilson Webre
informed the County Board of Supervisors Wednesday, "a tremendous amount of pipe will be off loaded and moved by rail through Port Bienville's terminal."

The board of supervisors approved a resolution by the port commission authorizing a six month lease with Port Bienville Terminals, Inc. involving Lot 46 and a portion of the public area at the turning basin.

"The equivalent of 20 miles of pipe will be moved through the port," Webre stated.

"The lease will earn the county $500 a month, 15 percent of the gross revenues and 50 percent of the freight charges," Webre explained.

In other port-related business, the board:

—Approved issuance of Borg-Warner construction bonds for the company's Port Bienville plant. Supervisor Bert Courge said the company will break ground for the new plant April 1;

—Approved a resolution by the commission authorizing the hiring of Harry Smith to perform a ground survey and provide a plat and legal description of lots 51, 52 and 53 at Port Bienville costing $650;

—Approved a commission resolution authorizing proper officers to execute assignment of option to purchase agreement between Bergeron Industries, Inc. and Bergeron Marine, Inc.

—Approved a commission resolution authorizing proper officers to execute a document not to disstrain personal property of Bergeron Marine, Inc.;

accepting a $518 bid from Art Signs for repainting of Stennis International Airport's sign on Hwy. 603;

Stab victim's condition good

A Bay St. Louis teenager Wednesday was reported in "fairly good" condition by authorities at Gulfport Memorial Hospital where he is under treatment for stab wounds sustained in a shopping center altercation here.

Bay Police Chief Douglas Williams said a 24-year-old Waveland man was arrested in connection with the Friday incident.

"At 8:59 a.m. Friday, our office received a call reporting a fight in progress in the Bay St. Louis Shopping Center. Officers Alvin Favre and Harris Boudreaux answered the call,"
Williams said.

Police reported Michael Henry, 24, of Herilthy Street in Waveland and Damien Nichols, 18, Sycamore St., Bay St. Louis apparently were engaged in an argument.

"After a brief argument Henry claims that Nichols reached into his front pocket, presumably for a weapon, and then Henry pulled a knife and allegedly stabbed Nichols in the chest," a police report stated.

Nichols was taken to Hancock General Hospital and then transferred to Gulfport Memorial Hospital where he was treated for internal bleeding, according to police.

Henry was charged with assault and battery with intent to maim, according to Williams who is assisting in the investigation.

Cuevas and Willie Harrington examine a car driven by David Strong, 18, Bay St. Louis. Melinda Gates, 25, a passenger in the Wilson auto, and Kim Breland, 15, riding with Strong, were injured and taken to Hancock General Hospital by Mobile Medic. Breland had abrasions and contusions and a small laceration, according to Hospital Administrator Harry Gilmore. Gates received an injury to the head and neck, Gilmore reported. Both the injured were treated and released from the hospital Monday, the administrator added. Investigating the mishap was Bay Patrolman Harris Boudreaux. Exnicious, who witnessed the accident, notified the other authorities on his police radio. (Staff photo-Rich Adams)

Supervisors decline to fill VA position

By WAYNE DUCOMB
Hancock County paid $50 a month to Troy Smith, of the Sellers Community, as assistant county veteran's service officer for some eight years and he has not worked in that capacity for at least four years.

The revelation was made at a Wednesday morning meeting of the Hancock County Board of Supervisors.
A motion by Supervisor Roger Dale Ladner to reappoint Smith drew objections from board members. The motion died for lack of a second.

"He has not done anything in that job to my knowledge and has never even filed a report," said Supervisor James Travirca.

"He was never told to file a report,
but he said in the future he would," said Supervisor Ladner.

"I don't think he's needed," Travirca
stated.

Smith was unavailable for comment
Wednesday morning.

Board President Dolph Kellar asked Chancery Clerk Mike Necaise to call Veteran's Service Officer Mike Ladner to appear before the board.

"I've never seen him. One time we referred calls to his house when I was away and Smith's wife called asking us not to refer any calls to their house," Veteran's Service Officer Ladner said.

"He has never filed any reports with my office," Veteran's Service Officer Ladner added.

"Mike Ladner has been employed full time as service officer for about a year and Smith has been assistant service officer for about the last eight years," Necaise said just after the board meeting.

Later Wednesday morning former Hancock County Veteran's Service Officer John Wilkerson said, "I can verify that Smith never did anything for me."

"I was service officer from Oct. 1, 1976 to June 11, 1979, almost three years," Wilkerson stated.

"All I knew was that Smith held an appointment. When I was not available my calls were referred to him and Smith would refer calls back to me," Wilkerson reported.

"This was part of a political deal arranged many years ago to get a full time county veteran's service officer," Wilkerson added.

"The county designates one-fourth a mill for the county veteran's service officer and as of Jan. 31 we have $3,161
in that fund," Kellar explained.

"As you can see there's a good bit of road still unpaved," Scafile added.

The board also accepted a resolution by the commission in favor of a new county-wide ownership map if economically feasible and agreed to advertise for bids to draw up a map as requested by Scafile.

Later during the meeting, Board President Dolph Kellar asked that the board action specify the planning commission fund the map.

"There are a number of ways to prepare an ownership map so we simply need the board's approval to pursue this matter," Scafile explained.

"I think we need names and parcel numbers on this map and the map should coincide with an equal assessment of property," Kellar said.

Supervisor Bert Courge asked if the commission had acted on a request by supervisors to inform new residents of drainage and fencing laws.

"We will add some language to our permits stating this," Scafile replied.

In other business the board:

—Approved a trip for the tax assessor and the deputy tax assessor to attend an annual tax assessor's seminar;

—Approved a request by Chancery Clerk Mike Necaise to disregard certain records, in accordance with Statute 171, due to space restrictions in his office;

Pass native, wife killed

Funeral services for a 40-year-old Pass Christian native and his 39-year-old wife who were stabbed to death in their suburban New Orleans home last weekend are to be at 2:30 p.m. today at Riemann Funeral Home in Long Beach.

Joseph G. Bobinger and his wife Bernadine were stabbed to death in their Terrytown, La., home Saturday night about 9:30.

Authorities have charged Bobinger's brother-in-law, Kenneth Sharp of Algiers, La., with the murders.

A police spokesman said a sister of Bobinger had moved in with her brother and his family following domestic troubles.

Her husband, Sharp, went to the Bobinger home Saturday night to talk with his wife, police said.

She refused to talk with him and he allegedly began to beat her, according to officers.

Police said when the Bobingers tried to stop the fight and eject Sharp, Sharp allegedly drew a pocket knife and stabbed the Bobingers.

The police said a teenage son of the Bobingers ran from the house and notified police.

Sharp was arrested a short time later. The funeral notice is included in today's Echo Obituaries.

Teachers union meets with state legislators

Mississippi American Federation of Teachers' members met with Coast legislators recently at a special legislative dinner meeting to review current legislative proposals.

Attending the meeting were representatives from AFT locals in the three Coastal counties.

Legislative representatives who attended were Dennis Dollar, Glenn Endris, Isiah Fredericks, Charles Lippian, and Joe B. Rouse.

The teachers explained reasons for proposals adopted by the MAFT members.

"The very first of our priorities will cost the state absolutely nothing but is needed by every teacher in Mississippi," stated Bill Powell.

Powell, who is the chairperson of MAFT's Committee on Political Education, COPE, referred to the repeal of the School Employment Procedures Act of 1977, (SEPA). Under this law teachers must prove themselves innocent of allegations used for non-renewal of contracts while administrators making the charges are not required to furnish proof at all.

"It's un-American for teachers to be treated this way," Powell stated. "Even a criminal is considered innocent until proven guilty. Teachers have been denied this right since SEPA came into being."

Les Sturtevant, president of the Biloxi AFT, and SEPA chairperson for MAFT, cited instances in several cases where deliberate plans to remove certain teachers were contrived, and because of SEPA legislation, no defense could be adequately designed to save the teacher's job.

Discussion was also held on seven other proposals that MAFT is pursuing:

- That teachers be granted the same insurance benefits as to other state employees;
- That teacher salaries at all levels be raised to the Southeastern average;
- That first, second, and third grade classes be limited to 24 students in number and not average;
- That the amount of money provided by the state for student expenditures be raised to the Southeastern average;
- That all public school administrative units within a county be consolidated into a single county-wide administrative system,

They need our oil and we do not want their waste!

There seems to be a tendency for our northern neighbors to want to exploit the South in far too many ways.

Recent indications of storing nuclear waste in Mississippi and neighboring states is another fine example.

We can go back just a few years and hear the groans and moans when oil companies were interested in test drilling for oil on the Eastern Coast of the U.S. as another example.

They want us in the South to do the dirty work for the oil and gas and transport it to them. In the meantime the Federal Government restricts municipalities like Bay St. Louis and Waveland from having new residences served with natural gas.

Probably one of the hottest areas of the production of oil and gas in the United States in the last several decades are right here in Hancock County.

The federal government wants to place nuclear waste in the salt domes of Mississippi.

We are very glad that our Governor William Winter has stated that he will resist federal efforts to store high-level nuclear waste material in our state.

We hope that you as well will show your support of Governor Winter in this matter, we are tired of someone else always telling us just what to do.

To put emphasis on the fact someone is trying to put something down our throats, the 14-member panel of elected state and local officials assigned by the federal government doesn't even contain a person from Mississippi.

We think it is time for the northern folk to keep their waste home.

John Davis, extension horticulturist, will lead the clinic from 9:30-11:30 a.m. at the Extension Auditorium, 406 Necaise Ave., Bay St. Louis.

David, as well as John Smith county agent, and others will be on hand to answer any questions pertaining to landscaping.

We hope everyone of you will try to attend this important clinic, we'd like to make Hancock County the showcase of the State.

Well Mardi Gras is now behind us, and we hope everyone had a fine time.

The weather man cooperated very well for most parades with the exception of Diamondhead's, and they were able to reschedule the next day.

There is one group who gets very little recognition, and they are the police who lead the parades and direct traffic during the parades.

We would like to commend them for doing their thing during the parades.

We have a serious problem in Hancock County. There seems to be far too many homes being destroyed by fire with arson suspected.

We hope that if arson is going on someone will be soon caught.

We at this time again, would recommend any resident seeing someone suspicious in his her neighborhood to report it to the police.

The three police departments do a fine job in patrolling, but, with the size of the cities and county there is no way for them to be in every place at one given time.

Many times we as good citizens can help them.

ACCENT ON AGRICULTURE By Congressman Trent Lott

5th District, Mississippi

As Congress begins to consider the issues of the 1980's, I believe we must work to assure farmers and cattlemen that they will continue to be the backbone of American life.

My good friend and House colleague, Congressman Tom Coleman, R-Missouri, pointed out the other day that the rapid growth of world population presents the American farmer with great opportunities to expand trade relations, while helping offset the U.S. trade deficit.

Unfortunately, of 25 foreign trade offices authorized in a 1978 law, the Carter administration has opened only six. To further complicate the situation, the number of Americans engaged in farming has dwindled over the past 25 years from 23 million to eight million.

Without a doubt, the family farmer has been one of the most fruitful contributors to the quality of American life, and the concept must be protected. As Congressman Coleman said, we first must recognize the dire impact that inflation has on the production costs of family farmers.

For instance, farm equipment, petroleum, feed, seed, fertilizer, pesticides, herbicides and other ingredients of a successful operation cost an average of 84 percent more today than 10 years ago. Yet farmers receive only 32 cents on the average from every dollar increase in the typical marketbasket price at the grocery store.

There are sensible solutions. We must act to control inflation by adopting a balanced federal budget, while giving full support to the market-oriented system upon which family farming is built.

There are also a number of negative factors which must be eliminated. They include unrealistic bureaucratic regulations, unfair tax laws which allow foreign investors to escape capital gains taxes on their U.S. farmland investments, and the deterioration of vital transportation links.

As I have said before, Congress must encourage energy research and development into gasoline and other products which can be helpful in giving farmers the fuel they need to plant, harvest and transport their crops. Another measure I consider beneficial cleared the House just last week. It proposes to convert disaster payments to farmers into a formal crop insurance program, with the government subsidizing premium payments up to 30 percent.

Just as America has the opportunity to expand trade relations with the rest of the world, Congress has the opportunity to learn from past mistakes involving throwing money at urban problems.

Our commitment must be to avoid those mistakes as we move to new, more viable, rural policies designed to help, not hinder, American agriculture.

Former paratrooper deplors snobbery in the draft

Feb. 18, 1980
Editor
Sea Coast Echo

Dear Sir,

About the draft—We had a draft in 1940-41—it was for one year, then you were discharged to go about your life's career.

One year for your Country—is that too much to ask for your youth today?

As you know, many who were in the Armed forces at that time were in for the duration and 6 months, after the Japanese bombed Pearl Harbor.

Nothing has changed in my opinion. Our America and West Americans love freedom too much to let it all go down the drain. With slogans of the so called intelligent egg heads like "Hell no I want go."

I vividly recall an interview I had with a professor on application to enter college.

What did not say you were in the Army he asked? A paratrooper I proudly replied. What! He explained, but that's no job for a man of your intelligence.

That old buggaboo, intelligence. Well keep it up America. Keep telling your youth that mud and danger are fit only for dumb yokels.

Keep saying only the stupid are fit for sacrifice.

Keep saying America should be defended by low brow's only, and enjoyed by the intellectuals.

Keep up that kind of advice and America will surrender freedom to the first bandit with enough guts and heart, to demand it.

America and freedom must be defended by American's in all walks of life, farmers, lawyers, rich and poor and the only way you can incorporate all these groups into our armed forces is by a draft.

Yes, I do also think young women should be included in a draft; however, I can not see them in the role of combat soldier.

There are enough meh-comfort jobs to keep them busy.

Respectfully,

Sales tax repeal on food would mean savings

Editor
Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Sir,

If the 1980 Mississippi legislature would repeal the sales tax on food bought at grocery stores for human consumption, inflation of food prices would be reduced by 5 percent. Or, eliminating the sales tax on food could be thought of as a considerable annual raise of income for each family.

To figure how much a family would save annually from repeal of the sales tax on food, multiply the average weekly expenditure for food by the 52 weeks of the year and multiply the answer by .05.

Examples: $50 per week X 52 equal $2600 X .05 equal $130, the amount saved each year. Or $80 per week X 52 equal $4160 X .05 equal $208 in annual savings.

Food is a necessity of life which should not be taxed. Thirty states either never had a food tax or have gotten rid of it. Ask your legislators to make Mississippi the 31st state to eliminate the sales tax on food.

MISSISSIPPI ECONOMIC COUNCIL
THE STATE
CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The Mississippi Economic Council told a Senate Highways subcommittee that before any effective highway construction program can be achieved in Mississippi, changes must be made in the administrative structure of the highway system.

Former MEC President G.B. Brard of Jackson told members of the subcommittee, chaired by Senator Buddy Gresham of Greenville, that "Highway construction and maintenance have not kept pace with transportation demands. And, changes should be made before Mississippians are called upon to pay more tax dollars into the system."

Beard, a consulting engineer and former mayor of the City of Forest, said

SALTY SALLY

A personal note of appreciation included with the employee's pay doesn't make the pay worth more...But it sure makes the employee worth more.

MEC recommends replacing the present three-member, elected commission with a five-member appointed highway commission with one commissioner from each congressional district. Terms should be staggered to prevent selection of a majority of the commission during any four-year period.

The Council further recommends that the highway commission's authority, whether elected or appointed, should be limited to policy-making and approving bids and other contracts. The commission should be required to select a director subject to confirmation by the Senate and removed only for cause.

Beard outlined reasons for the need for change. They are:

—The Governor should influence highway development which is an executive responsibility; but he has little if any influence with the three commissioners; and —Public credibility must be reestablished.

Beard said Mississippi is the only state with a popularly elected highway commission. He stated the period of most growth in highway construction in Mississippi was during a four-year period (1936-40) during which the Legislature allowed Governor Hugh White to appoint a three-man commission.

During this four-year period, 3,708 miles—60 percent—of the state's highways at that time were paved, placed under construction, or placed under contract. Mississippi has never again enjoyed the success of the 1936-40 period.

"In 1980 Mississippi, our highway commissioners are too involved in day-to-day operations for effective administration; the Governor needs to have some influence into highway planning and development; and, most importantly, public credibility needs to be restored in the highway department's policy-making body," said Beard. "And to do this, a change needs to be made to secure an appointed highway commission."

County home economist tells food freezing tips

BY SHIRLEY C. ROBINSON

Extension Home Economist TIPS ON FREEZING FOOD

Are you looking for ways to make those special occasions or extra busy days easier? If you are, you will want to use that extra space in your home freezer to advantage. Put some of it to use by freezing dishes prepared, ready to be heated or cooked and served.

Before you fill your freezer with prepared foods, however, you will want to decide whether they will save you time when you need it. There are many frozen dishes that are excellent when properly prepared and frozen. Of course, you will want to decide for yourself which foods are practical for freezing in your home.

For best quality and economical use of freezer space, plan your freezing and use of precooked main dishes so that they will not be in the freezer longer than 2 or 3 months.

In general, prepare the foods as you would if it were to be served immediately. Do not overcook. Some ingredients in main dishes that must be heated over for serving are better if slightly underdone. If cooked well-done before freezing, they are apt to be too soft when reheated.

They are also likely to have a warmed over flavor. For best flavor and texture, cook rice, spaghetti and macaroni fresh when ready to serve.

Avoid excessive amounts of fats. Fats often separate after freezing, but this is usually corrected by the reheating.

Do not refreeze prepared dishes-package them in quantities which can be readily used.

Prepare a-la-king dishes by the usual method. Bake beans in the usual manner. Cool in covered utensils; package. When making chicken or meat pies, omit potatoes for best results.

After food is prepared, completely cook it and pack in family-size portions in individual packages. Place all packages for one meal in large freezer bag and label the contents, or place foods in divided foil plates and wrap for freezing. You will want to include on the label the foods included in the menu, plus heating directions.

Generally speaking, it is better to reheat frozen cooked main dishes without thawing. If you thaw food completely before reheating it is best to thaw in the refrigerator, thawing at room temperature may cause dangerous spoilage if it takes several hours.

Most precooked frozen foods can be reheated either in the oven or on top of the range. Reheating in the oven requires little of your attention and usually keeps the texture of the food better. Only oven-proof containers can be safely taken from the freezer to put directly into the hot oven for reheating or cooking.

Meat should be tender but firm. Leftover roasted meats as beef, ham, pork, chicken and turkey with dressing and gravy, and Swiss steaks with gravy freeze satisfactorily. Potatoes become mushy and grainy when frozen in stews.

Whipped and baked potatoes freeze satisfactorily. French fried potatoes freeze best when cut very thin. Baked beans freeze well. Onions in stews lose flavor and sage tends to lose strength.

It is best not to add cloves and garlic to foods before freezing. Baking powder biscuits, muffins and nut bread may be frozen baked or unbaked. Hard-cooked egg whites become tough when frozen. Raw vegetables and fried foods lose their crispness when frozen.

When you plan entire meals to be frozen, choose a menu with a variety of color, shape, texture and flavor. Remember, each food on the plate is to be ready for serving at the same time so the food items should have about the same reheating time.

By Katy
McGuire

Some years ago, when I was growing up in the aftermath of the Great Depression - and what was so great about it, I'd like to know - I was helping the family cook, Mary, get some chickens ready for simmering and cooking. How she yelled when I, without thinking, started to "dump" the necks and other such parts into the garbage pail.

That's when I really started to learn some of the delights of Soul Cooking, which evolved from necessity and wound up as one of the tastiest cuisines ever, fit for the gourmand and gourmet anywhere on earth.

Mary called today's dish her "Fool Your Daddy Casserole" as she substituted the less elegant parts for the chicken breasts and such, to help keep my father's pride in his household more or less intact after the household staff had shrunk to just Mary in the kitchen (and all "round the house) and the budget had shrunk into penny-pinching ways.

And you know to this day I enjoy the wings and backs and such cuts of chicken more than the supposed-to-be-special parts, as there's more of a taste tang therein.

Here's:

PENNY-PINCHER'S CHICKEN

It's simple - the backs, wings, neck (gizzard and heart optional) of one or two chickens, depending upon the number of servings you need.

Cover with cold water, bring to a boil, and simmer for a couple of hours, along with a chopped onion or so, celery tops and parsley; salt and pepper.

Drain, reserving the broth, and pick the meat off the bones - as soon as it's cool enough to handle, of course.

Meanwhile, cook one-third to one-half package of spaghetti, according to your needs.

Drain and place in greased casserole dish, add a can of cream of chicken (or cream of onion or celery or mushroom) soup and one-half cup of milk, along with the chicken bits, mixing well together.

Top with American cheese, grated or in chunks, and bread crumbs if you like. Bake at 350 degrees for 35 to 40 minutes. Save the broth, and add a little leftover rice to the dish - you'll have chicken-rice soup for another day.

THE WAY TO START A DAY

BY BYRD BAYLOR

The way to start a day is this—

Go outside and face the east and greet the sun with some kind of blessing or chant or song that you made yourself and keep for early morning.

The way to make the song is this—

Don't try to think what words to use until you're standing there alone. When you feel the sun, you'll feel the song, too. Just sing it. But don't think you're the only one who ever worked that magic.

Your caveman brothers knew what to do. Your cavewoman sisters knew, too. They sang to help the sun come up, and lifted their hands to its power.

A morning needs to be sung to. A new day needs to be honored. People have always known that.

Didn't they chant at dawn in the sun temples of Peru?

And leap and sway to Aztec flutes in Mexico?

And drum sunrise songs in the Congo?

And ring a thousand small gold bells in China?

Didn't the pharaohs of Egypt say the only sound at dawn should be the sound of songs that please the morning sun?

They knew what songs to sing.

People always seemed to know.

And everywhere they knew what gifts the sun wanted.

In some places they gave gold. In some places they gave flowers. In some places, sacred smoke blown to the four directions.

Some places, feathers and good thoughts. Some places, fire.

But everywhere they knew to give something.

And everywhere they knew to turn their faces eastward as the sun came up.

Some people still know.

When the first pale streak of light cuts through the darkness, wherever they are, those people make offerings and send strong mysterious songs to the sun.

They know exactly how to start a day.

Their blessings float on the wind over Pueblo cornfields in New Mexico, and you hear their morning songs in villages in Africa, and they salute the sunrise ceremonially in the high cold mountains of Peru.

Today, long before dawn, they were already waiting in Japan with prayers, and they were gathering at little shrines in India with marigolds in their hands. They were bathing in the sacred Ganges River as the sun came up.

And high on a mesa edge in Arizona they were holding a baby toward the sun. They were speaking the child's new name so the sun would hear and know that child. It had to be sunrise. And it had to be that first sudden moment. That's when all the power of life is in the sky. Some people say there is a new sun every day, that it begins its life at dawn and lives for one day only.

They say you have to welcome it. You have to make the sun happy. You have to make a good day for it.

You have to make a good world for it to live its one day life in.

And the way to start, they say, is just by looking east at dawn.

When they look east tomorrow,

you can, too.

Your song will be an offering. And you'll be one more person, in one more place, at one more time in the world, saying hello to the sun, letting it know you are there.

If the sky turns a color sky never was before, just watch it. That's part of the magic. That's the way to start a day.

Winter opposes proposed 'nuclear dumping ground'

Governor William Winter expressed concern this week that Mississippi may be used as a "nuclear dumping ground" and that no Mississippian was appointed to a council selected to study the matter.

Three salt domes in Mississippi are being considered by federal officials as sites for storage of nuclear waste. However, no Mississippian was appointed to a 14-member panel of elected state and local officials formed to handle problems associated with the storage.

Governor Winter has consistently stated that he will resist federal efforts to store high-level nuclear waste material in Mississippi.

Winter personally contacted federal officials and sent a telegram to U.S.

President Jimmy Carter calling the absence of a Mississippian on the 14-member panel "unacceptable to me and to the people of Mississippi."

Three salt domes in south Mississippi are being considered as possible sites for dumping of nuclear waste and the council was appointed to handle problems associated with the storage.

Governor Winter has consistently stated that he will resist federal efforts to store high-level nuclear waste material in Mississippi.

Also during the week, the governor announced the appointments of three Mississippians to posts in his administration, furthering his commitment to "bring highly qualified people into state government."

Winter named Forest Attorney Constance Slaughter-Harvey to head the Office of Human Resources, Wilbur G. "Bill" Ball associated with Mississippi College's Department of Continuing Education, serving as Coordinator of Personnel Training and an instructor of management courses.

Maier, a 20-year U.S. Marine Corps veteran, has been employed by the state Civil Defense Council since 1972. He served as a contract planner, training and information officer, operations officer, and chief planner.

"The appointment of these three individuals will insure that the people of Mississippi have capable people conducting the day-to-day operations of state government," the governor said in announcing these appointments.

collected a fine from a motorist and allegedly failed to report the fine in the records turned over to the supervisors. Documents received by the Sea Coast Echo Monday apparently support allegations Anderson collected from the county on tickets not actually issued by officers.

An insurance policy on Glen P. Cuevas, a former Hancock County resident, was cancelled because Anderson reported Cuevas was found guilty of infractions in connection with a July, 1978 automobile accident when in fact no citations were issued by law enforcement officers.

According to an accident report filed by Hancock County Sheriff's Deputies Fairly Necaise and Paul Bernard, Cuevas and McCoy Peterson, both of Route One, Pass Christian, were involved in a July 15, 1978 head-on accident on Wolf Creek Road.

According to the report, no citations were issued by the investigating officers.

On Sept. 29, 1978, CIM Insurance Corporation of Atlanta, Georgia, sent to Anderson a copy of a claim filed by Peterson for $3,433.

Anderson wrote on the bottom of the form, "The above defendant (Peterson) was found not guilty in court on the accident. C.P. Cuevas was (sic) found guilty." The form was signed by the judge.

Cuevas said Monday he never was called to court in connection with the mishap, and added the insurance policy was cancelled because of the judge's postscript on the claim.

On March 20, 1979, Cuevas obtained a statement from the investigating officers and Anderson verifying no tickets were issued in connection with the accident.

Cuevas then employed Gulfport Attorney W.F. Holder II, who wrote a letter to the Safety Responsibility Bureau of the Department of Highway Patrol in Jackson requesting verification of whether Anderson ever reported any citations or convictions as a result of the accident.

Safety Responsibility Bureau Director Tom Hester answered Holder's letter, stating "we have absolutely no information in this Bureau concerning the accident. To date the only investigating officer's report received is the copy enclosed with your letter. A search was also made in the Drivers License Bureau and no citation was found in Mr. Cuevas' permanent record."

Anderson said his report of Cuevas' guilt was a "misunderstanding." "It was a misunderstanding as I was told tickets were written, which I later found out were not," Anderson told the Echo Tuesday.

"I then signed a statement to that effect for Mr. Cuevas," he added.

Anderson said the entire controversy concerning his earnings and alleged irregularities in his court is an attempt at "abolishing the Justice Court system in Mississippi."

"I would like to say this is all a setup. The (Clarion-Ledger) reporter told me when he interviewed me in my office that the story would be all one-sided because he was for abolishing the Justice Court system in Mississippi," Anderson said Tuesday.

While the (state) legislators are in session, he (the reporter) and other well-organized and well-funded groups are trying to use these allegations against the judges in getting the Justice Court judges abolished. A few people in Hancock County want the system changed," he continued.

"It is my understanding in speaking with a senator that a bill will be introduced to abolish the office in a few weeks," Anderson added.

Anderson said opponents are using himself and Silkwood as "scapegoats" to have the system changed.

"They used me and a highway patrolman as scapegoats, but the Justice Court system is stronger than ever before," Anderson said.

"Opponents to the system are trying to break this strength by false allegations against the judges and highway patrolmen," he continued.

"Records show that at this time every year allegations are made against the Justice Court judges, and they keep getting more and more personal and harder to take," the judge said.

"The legislature is in session and these opponents are trying to get the legislator's attention," he added.

Anderson said the Clarion-Ledger reporter was unfair in his report of the allegations.

"I think a reporter should be fair, and a reporter who is against you can hurt you politically and image-wise by the stroke of his pen," Anderson said Tuesday.

"The reporter told me, 'Something stinks down here,' and I told him it could be him (who stinks)," the judge stated.

In writing a three-page story containing allegations against me, he should have been able to find a few good things to say about me," Anderson continued.

"I have received more publicity as a result of these allegations than the Shah of Iran or the 50 American hostages. My records as Justice Court judge for the past four-plus years are open to examination by anyone. I will be happy to explain the records to them," he added.

"My records were checked by a special investigator as recently as December, and he never reported any irregularities to me," the District Three judge said.

"If there were any errors, he should have come to me and allowed me to explain my actions instead of running to a newspaper reporter without letting me know of the errors. I think an auditor's work should be handled in a professional manner," Anderson continued.

"My opponents are trying to make a mountain out of a molehill. I handled about 12,000 cases during the past four years, and I am entitled to a few honest mistakes," he added.

The Clarion-Ledger also reports Anderson's commission for hearing cases is the second highest judge's commission in Hancock County.

The report states the Board of Supervisors paid Anderson $11,690 for handling 1,169 cases, the majority of those cases accounted for by Silkwood.

Anderson's 1979 overall income of $58,930 reflects an $11,445 increase over his 1978 income, the Clarion-Ledger reports.

The report adds, however, that in 1978 Anderson's income leaped to $41,000 from $6,318 in 1977.

The Jackson newspaper alleges Silkwood issued tickets to motorists in districts other than Anderson's and channeled the defendants to Anderson's court.

"Although there is a place on the ticket form for the officer to denote the location of the violation, in that spot on many of the out-of-jurisdiction tickets obtained by The Clarion-Ledger, Silkwood merely entered Anderson's phone number," the news report alleges.

Silkwood said Monday he moves around often and is not always sure which judge is supposed to handle a particular ticket, but assumes the justices themselves should straighten out that matter.

Silkwood also defended his high volume of tickets by explaining the fatality rate along the highway has dramatically decreased since he began his patrol.

Information concerning Anderson's handling of fees and fines was turned over to District Attorney Albert Necaise in January before the Hancock County Grand Jury went into session, according to the Jackson newspaper.

District Attorney Albert Necaise said he has received information from the state auditor's office regarding Anderson, but contended the information is "incomplete."

Area boxers advance to state competition

Four Hancock County boxers will participate in state competition of the Mississippi Golden Gloves after recently winning district championships in Hattiesburg.

Sam Schoonmaker, Joe Louis Goodman, and Joe Pavolini of the Hancock Boxing Club and Stanley (Snakes) Christmas of the Bay-Kiln-Waveland Boxing Club recorded victories last week in the 1980 South Mississippi Golden Gloves.

Schoonmaker, the 1978 state champion in the 75-pound division, defeated Douglas Moore of Newton in the first round of a scheduled three-rounder last weekend.

Schoonmaker received a trophy in the sub-novice division and will advance to state finals in Cleveland Feb. 27-29.

Pavolini, claiming his third South

Christmas, a relative newcomer to the ring, defeated Danny Hogan of the Natchez Boxing Club on a decision after three two-minute rounds.

He fought in the welterweight sub-novice division to win his trophy.

"Snakes kept absolute control of the fight with Hoagn and won the decision. Hogan bullied Christmas into the corner, but Stanley is the best counterpuncher in the Amateur Athletic Union today and works well from the corner," Head Coach John Whisenhunt said.

Jack Boyd Perry, a 12-year-old pugilist with the Bay-Kiln-Waveland club, lost to his opponent in the final bout of his weight class.

Hancock North Central gridiron starter Keith Glass from Kiln also lost in heavyweight finals.

Joe Louis Goodman of the Hancock Boxing Club was stopped in the second round of the final match in his category after he received an illegal punch to the kidneys, according to Head Coach Harvey Mitchell.

Mitchell said Goodman will fight in state competition next weekend in the 147-pound open class.

The Hancock Club will host a 23-bout card in the Bay St. Louis Armory Saturday beginning at 7 p.m.

Tickets are on sale and may be obtained from club members.

The Bay-Kiln-Waveland squad will host a boxing match at the Disabled American Veteran Hall on Main Street in Bay St. Louis March 8.

Tickets are on sale and cost $2 for adults and $1 for children.

Whisenhunt said his club is not associated with the Hancock Club in the upcoming armory match, but will be traveling to Louisiana for another bout.

Waveland considered asylum for Emperor Napoleon Bonaparte

By S. GRADY THIGPEN

There is a combination of romance, intrigue and mystery in the history of Napoleon Bonaparte and of how it got its name. The name came from the fact that Jerome Napoleon, brother of Emperor Napoleon Bonaparte of France, once camped on the high banks of Pearl River just southwest of where Napoleon Baptist Church stood for years before being forced to move by the government.

The Emperor had been imprisoned on the Isle of Helena. His brother Jerome and others loyal to him plotted to rescue him from this prison. Due to the world-wide fame and the great prominence of the Emperor and because of his many enemies, the strictest secrecy was vital to the success of their plan.

If Napoleon Bonaparte was to be rescued they needed a place of refuge for him, and that's where our interest in this story comes in. Jerome and a few of his faithful and loyal followers set out to visit the New Orleans area where the Emperor was thought to have many faithful friends and followers.

They slipped away from the coast of France disguised as an ordinary cargo boat and crew. They carried with them a usual cargo for those time but, known only to Jerome and those the very closest to him, they also carried $80,000 in gold which they hoped to use to finance their clandestine operation in this area.

They hoped that the great magic of the Bonaparte name, along with their skillful planning, would stampede this section to the banner of the Emperor and that they could establish a new nation here with him as its head.

The Bonapartes had friends and known followers in the New Orleans area that they hoped to contact and from whom they hoped for enthusiastic aid. The voyage across the Atlantic Ocean was uneventful but they were warned of dangers in the Gulf of Mexico from pirates and free-booters who infested those waters in those times. No ship that could not fight its way was safe there.

When they entered the Gulf of Mexico they tried to hide by day and travel at night. They did not dare to try to go up the Mississippi River, which was by far the best way to go to New Orleans because of the buccaneers who were known to hover around the mouth of this great river.

Neither did they dare to try to go by way of the Rigolets and Lake Pontchartrain because of the pirates and robbers who pounced on all ships in that area from their headquarters on Honey Island.

Their plan was to land on the Mississippi Gulf Coast and then work their way by secret and little used passages into the City of New Orleans. By skillful and careful planning and maneuvering, they made their way to land in the general area of where Waveland now stands.

They were met there by trusted aides, headed by Jeremiah Henley who lived at that time on Pearl River about a mile north of Walkish Bluff. Jeremiah was sympathetic with and aided the French in their colonial arguments with Spain and as a reward had had his claim on Pearl River confirmed. Incidentally, this big tract of land on the river still goes on the record books of Pearl River County as the Jeremiah Henley Claim.

Much information not recorded in history books has come down to use through the Henley family. H. V. Henley of Eureka, California, a descendant of Jeremiah Henley, wrote, "In 1811 Jeremiah Henley with a group of French partisans joined with some French volunteers to aid Napoleon in his war against Russia. They sailed for France in time to be integrated into the French army that was to invade Russia. They were soldiers in Napoleon's Grand Army that marched to Moscow, the Russian Capital.

"They stayed in Moscow less than two months. In the terrible march back to France in the extreme cold and snow of a Russian winter, many of these soldiers from America were among those who lost their lives from cold and disease.

My grandmother told me of Jeremiah Henley's description of this retreat from Moscow when the snow along the line of march was dyed red by the bleeding feet of the soldiers. Out of the 500,000 soldiers who went to Moscow, Jeremiah was one of the very few who returned.

"He had not been back very long before French agents contacted him because of his known sympathies for France and asked that he organize a party to meet the French conspirators."

The French group were met by Jeremiah Henley and his aides at the appointed place where Waveland now stands with pack mules and supplies for the trip to a prearranged and prepared hiding place on the banks of East Pearl River just southwest of where old Napoleon Church stood.

Utmost secrecy was necessary as Jerome Napoleon, known world-wide as Bonaparte's brother, was at the head of the French group and would have been a great prize if captured. And, too, the Frenchmen carried with them $80,000 in gold, which the numerous bandits in the general area must now know about.

The French with their American guides and protectors arrived at their prepared hiding place under two big old live oaks in a jungle thickness of wild growth about 1000 feet east of Pearl River. All signs of their entrance were carefully eradicated.

As they were getting settled into the camp one of the mules brayed. He was killed instantly as they knew that if any of the many pirates infesting the river and nearby swamps heard the mule they would promptly investigate. They immediately buried it as they wanted no tell-tale buzzards informing the bandits of their location.

Jerome had with him only men in whom he had the greatest trust, yet he realized the great temptation that a great sum of gold offered to even the most trusted men to desert him and try to take the money for themselves.

It is said he went through the pretense of burying the gold a little way from their camp, but that he and his most trusted lieutenant slipped out on the darkest night and buried it in another place so that only the two of them knew where it was. Up to this good day no one knows whether they ever came back for it. They now made their plans to try to slip into New Orleans to contact their friends there. Pearl River with its many passages was dominated and controlled by one of the most dangerous gangs of criminals ever to operate in the Gulf Coast area.

Honey Island was the headquarters for this gang. They would make raids in fast boats into the Gulf and even into New Orleans itself, going in and out through little known and secret passages, to and from their hideouts up and down Pearl River.

They maintained several hideouts so that if one was discovered they would have others to go to. One such hideout was said to be across the river from Nicholson.

The leader of these criminals was Pierre Rameau who was widely known as the King of Honey Island. He was born and reared in Scotland and came from a good family, but, as often the case, he took the easy way to make money and became a brigand and a pirate.

His real name was McCulloch but he operated under the name of Pierre Rameau from Honey Island in his illegal activities.

In New Orleans he maintained one of the city's finest homes under the name of Col. Loring, who passed as a mine owner and operator from Mexico. It was common knowledge that many of the greatest fortunes in New Orleans in early times came for illegal activities.

It is said that Pierre Rameau often made raids and pulled off robberies in Louisiana and Mississippi, one at Waveland being minutely described. In this robbery, gems of great value were taken from the owner, he was then tied up in the house and the house set on fire.

The Americans trusted by Jerome knew the Pearl River area well with all its hidden passways. To get by the Honey Island thieves, they had to be extremely secretive in their plans and the execution of these plans.

They left about a dark night in a small sailboat that was also provided with oars. Jerome and his most trusted men had as their crew the most experienced and bravest of their men, depending on a local man with long experience in those waters to guide them.

As day broke they hid themselves in a small cove and sent a man up a tall tree to reconnoiter. He could see nothing in sight to bother them. They had their sail furled and made their way with oars to prevent any detection.

Up in the morning they suddenly saw a fast boat which they knew to belong to the buccaneers come speeding out from what had apparently been a hiding place. It seemed to be coming straight at them. While they thought they had been seen, their only chance was to assume that they had not been seen and to hide as quickly as possible.

They pulled quickly into a small passage and hid as best they could in a little clump of bushes and high grass. The larger boat kept coming at a fast clip. It had now been cloudy for sometime. When the pirate boat got within about one quarter mile of them, a heavy rain came up - so heavy they could hardly see the boat they thought was pursuing them. As it neared them they watched and waited in almost breathless suspense.

It passed them by - evidently they had not been seen. They were afraid to move as they had no idea when this boat would turn and come back.

They stayed hidden in the growth until about dark, while being burned by the sun and almost eaten up by mosquitos. After dark they began slowly and cautiously making their way. They soon saw the pirate boat, apparently anchored in the very direction in which they were going. They tried to find a way around but no passage could be found.

They decided their only chance was to slip by unobserved in the dark and cloudy night. They made it without being detected and one night later reached their destination of New Orleans.

In New Orleans they found no enthusiasm for Napoleon Bonaparte. They had to give up their plan. It is not recorded how they made their way back to their boat hidden up a little creek near Waveland nor is it recorded whether or not they ever came back to get the buried money.

While I know of no connection between Simon Favre and the Jerome Bonaparte expedition, I am informed that Simon Favre was a colonel in the French army and a favorite of the great French emperor and also an intimate friend of Jeremiah Henley.

Napoleon granted to Simon Favre all the land between the two Pearl Rivers which we now know as Honey Island, with another grant to him of a good sized tract of his selection on the east bank of East Pearl.

IRS allows new credit on disabled

Taxpayers can now claim the child or disabled dependent care credit on payments made to a close relative, even though the payments aren't subject to social security taxes, the Internal Revenue Service said.

Previously, payments to a relative qualified for the credit only if the relative's services constituted employment for social security purposes.

Now, payments made to close relatives, such as a grandparent, sister, aunt, niece or nephew, qualify for the credit if the relative is not a dependent. Payments made to the taxpayer's child under age 19 do not qualify.

To meet requirements for the credit, a taxpayer must be employed or in active search of employment while paying for the care; must have income from work during the year, and must have maintained a household that included one or more qualifying individuals.

Qualifying individuals are dependent children under 15 years of age, a disabled spouse or a disabled dependent of any age.

Additional information on the credit is available in the free IRS Publication 503, "Child and Disabled Dependent Care," which may be ordered by filling out the order form in the tax package or by calling the IRS number listed in the local telephone directory.

Hancock County officials attending included: Michael Nicaise, chancery clerk; Roger Dale Ladner, supervisor and Elsie Kenny, board of supervisor's bookkeeper.

Three Bay students inducted into Pearl River organization

POPLARVILLE. Pearl River Junior College's Phi Theta Kappa organization granted admission to twenty-four students, including three from Bay St. Louis, in formal exercises recently.

To belong to the national honor organization a student must have an overall grade-point average (GPA) of 3.4 or at least 12 hours of academic work. The member must also have a letter of recommendation from a faculty member.

Roger Sanford, sophomore president from Picayune, presided over the meeting. Debra McWilliams, vice-president, Poplarville, gave the devotional and Lance Spiers, McNeil, read the preface to the PTK Charter.

The list of those inducted included Mindy Dodson, Fran Sallinger, and Sherry Wyatt from Bay St. Louis.

At the end of the ceremony, a special presentation to Dean Seal was announced, naming him an honorary member of Phi Theta Kappa for his help with the organization.

Seal gave some general words of advice to the inductees and the ceremony ended by recognizing the sponsors, Mrs. Ann, Morris and Mrs. Norma Jean Hammill.

"These new members do have their work cut out for them," said Mrs. Morris, "because Phi Theta Kappa is a busy organization."

The club is presently raising money for the Heart Fund and selling candy for their convention this spring.

Mississippi Tax Tips

Legal secretaries

slate Hawaiian luau

Mrs. Joanne Munghia, Representative of South Central Bell, was guest speaker at the February meeting of Harrison-Hancock Legal Secretaries Association.

The film, "If the Shoe Fits," on good telephone usage was presented. A question and answer session followed and Mrs. Munghia distributed a pamphlet entitled "Personally Speaking" to each member to be used as a guide to a more effective telephone personality.

During the business session it was announced that Vicki Lorimer, Susan Ware and Kare Lawley will serve as a nominations committee for the election of officers for the 1980-81 term.

The annual Bosses' Night event will be a Hawaiian Luau to be held on March 8 at the Broadwater Country Club. The Boss of the Year will be announced at that time.

A new committee for Civic and Welfare projects has been established. Rita Smith will serve as chairman during the remainder of the current term.

Members voted on Amendments to the State By-Laws which were proposed at the spring board meeting held last month in Cleveland, Mississippi.

Henrietta Caranna, governor, reported on that meeting which was attended by five chapter members. Marilyn Knight, employed by the firm of Bryan, Nelson, Allen, Schroeder & Cobb, Attorneys of Gulfport, was elevated to the position of president-elect for the 1980-81 term, at that meeting.

Ilyne Stewart, currently serving as president of the local chapter, has been nominated for the position of executive secretary.

Elections will be held at the annual convention being hosted this year by the local chapter at the Gulfport Best Western Inn, May 16, 17 and 18.

Members were reminded of the National Board Meeting to be held in Jackson on March 14 and 15, hosted by the State Association of Legal Secretaries, and urged to attend.

Guests present were Ellen Thomas and Susan Smith from Mayor Jack Barnett's office, and Mary Ann Gaudin, employed with Haas & Haas, Attorneys of Bay St. Louis.

Financial aid available through toll-free number

The department of Financial Aid and Scholarships (FAS) at the University of Southern Mississippi has installed a toll-free telephone line (1-800-222-1604) for financial assistance information for parents and prospective students.

USM's Financial Aid department now services over 70 percent of the student body amounting to over ten million dollars in various forms of financial assistance.

Consumer specialist gives life insurance advice

MONEY TALK
By Norine Barnes
If you don't have enough life insurance coverage to pay off your home mortgage in the event of your death, you may want to invest in mortgage life insurance.

Mortgage insurance is simply reducing term insurance. The purpose is to provide money to pay off the debt on a home for a family in the event of the breadwinner's death before the debt is paid. Reducing term insurance is like term life insurance in that it provides protection but no savings for a specified length of time.

However, while the premium for term insurance increases as the insured gets older, the reducing term insurance premiums remain the same while the amount of protection decreases. Credit life insurance is a form of reducing term insurance which covers the debtor's life with the creditor named as beneficiary of the policy. Funds are then available to pay off the debt in the event the debtor should die before the debt is paid.

Unfortunately, the debtor is sometimes required to purchase credit life insurance when he already has enough life insurance to meet the family's needs.

Credit life insurance is sometimes more expensive than regular insurance.

If you're confused by any life insurance details, contact your insurance representative and ask questions.

"The recent changes in financial aid programs have made assistance available to all our students," said Bill Fron, director of FAS at USM. "We are approaching a March 15, deadline for applications for aid programs and we urge parents and students who can't come to the campus to use our information line to find out what assistance might be available."

WINNING ARTIST—Warren Keating, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Keating of Waveland, recently won four awards for art he exhibited at the Mississippi Regional Exhibition of the National High School Art Exhibition at the Jackson Metro Center. Keating, a student at St. Stanislaus High School in Bay St. Louis, won a gold key, two blue ribbons for a watercolor and oil painting, and a Certificate of Merit for a mixed media piece. The art exhibition is presented by McRae's and Scholastic Magazine. (Staff photo-Rich Adams)

Daughters of Revolution slate officer installation

Lt. Gen. B.M. Shotts (Ret.) addressed the Gulf Coast Chapter of the Mississippi Society of Daughters of the American Revolution February 13 at their annual National Defense luncheon held at the Holiday Inn, Gulfport.

His speech was "shocking in its truthfulness about the situation we now face and the papers he referred to from Communist Russia and Germany, the first written in 1931 and the other written in 1919, and how these papers reflect the conditions we now are experiencing," a MSDAR spokesman reported.

Elizabeth C. Snow, a resident of Bay St. Louis, was named to the fall 1979 College of Sciences dean's list at the University of New Orleans. In order to merit this honor a student must earn at least a 3.5 average on a 4.0 system.

THE WALKER IN SHADOWS by Barbara Michaels. This one has everything, gothic fans - a beautiful woman in danger, a sinister and hostile man, and two (count 'em two) evil houses that threaten all who live in them.

ABIGAIL by Malcolm Macdonald (author of THE WORLD FROM ROUGH STONES). The story of a young woman of the Victorian Era, who refused the life ordained for her by society and made her own way, becoming a successful writer by goading and electrifying the establishment.

THE LIFE I REALLY LIVED by Jessamyn West. This compelling novel is written in the form of a confessional memoir by Orpha Chase, a popular author of inspirational family fiction, who exposes her real past, a life that involves murder, suicide, illegitimacy, adultery, homosexuality, faith healing, and an intricate deception that leads to a strange trial for manslaughter.

TRIPLE by Ken Follett (author of EYE OF THE NEEDLE). A novel that tries to imagine the real reason behind Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's trip to his historic enemies in Jerusalem, the riveting story of the most successful espionage coup - and best kept secret - of our century.

OLD LOVE by Isaac Bashevis Singer. Eighteen stories of love between middle-aged and older people by the winner of the Nobel Prize for Literature.

WOOD HEAT by Allan A. Swenson. All about keeping warm with wood - a handbook for ever cost-conscious, environment-conscious, modern homeowner.

JOURNEYS THROUGH THE SOUTH by Fred

Powledge. Developed from articles and essays, JOURNEYS THROUGH THE SOUTH is both a subjective and objective look at Powledge's homeland - its appealing ante-bellum charm, its attempts to come to grips with the problems of modernization.

DRAGONS by Peter Hogarth with Val Clery. Last year it was GNOMES; this year it's DRAGONS - a lively, lavishly illustrated history of the friend-foe who has played such a significant role in the cultural development of the Near and Far East, classical antiquity, the Dark ages, the Renaissance, and events of modern time.

WITHIN A DARK WOOD tells how Mrs. Barr was raped and withdrew into months of isolation and depression, finally seeking help through other women and a rape crisis center.

LESS THAN WORD CAN SAY by Richard Mitchell. In this book, Mitchell wakes everybody up with the most devastating expose to date of our rampant misuse of English. He wages war on its perversers, from teachers and deans to politicians and bureaucrats, whose consistently overblown prose offers inanity in the guise of wisdom.

Brownbuilder Jesse Lewis is working for you in Mississippi

Jesse Lewis, from Gautier, is a Mississippi Brownbuilder—one of the men and women of Brown & Root—working for you in Mississippi.

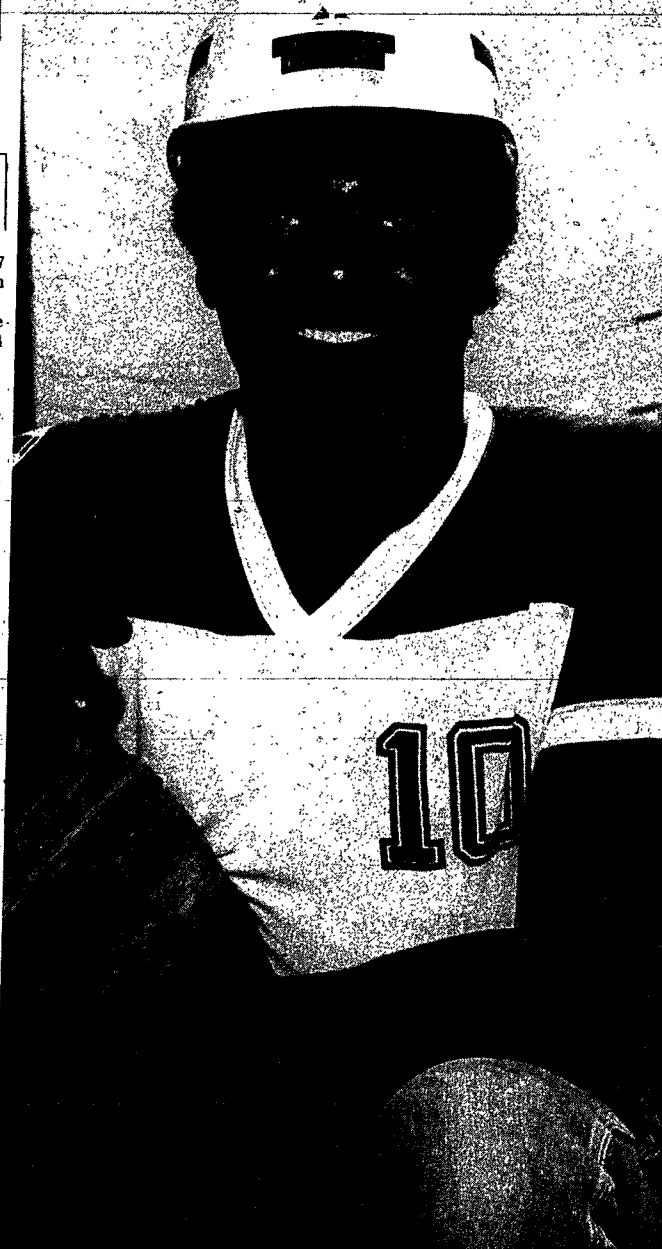

Jesse joined Brown & Root in 1976 working as an electrical helper, and is now electrical foreman. He and his wife, Shirley, have a son and two daughters. Jesse counts fishing and basketball among his favorite sports.

Mississippi Brownbuilders like Jesse are working for you and thousands of your neighbors. He's helping to build the hardware, such as oil fields and power plants, which will help insure Mississippi's future growth and prosperity.

Because of Brown & Root's policy of hiring locally first, most of our Brownbuilders here are Mississippi natives or longtime residents. Many of them first joined Brown & Root at project personnel offices near their homes. And, Brown & Root hires and promotes solely on the basis of individual ability and merit. Anyone willing and qualified is eligible to work. That way, local communities, counties and the state get maximum benefit from projects on which we work—hundreds of thousands of dollars in purchases, payrolls, savings and taxes.

Mississippi Brownbuilders and Brown & Root—working for you in

Soybean exports higher despite Soviet embargo

Figures released by the U.S. Department of Agriculture last week show exports of U.S. grains and soybeans running substantially ahead of year ago levels despite the suspension of grain shipments to the Soviet Union.

Since the Jan. 4 embargo, grain and soybean shipments to foreign countries have been more than one-third higher than for the same period a year ago, and corn exports are 45 percent higher than for the same three weeks in 1979, reports Dr. Michael Jones, marketing specialist, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

"Despite the suspension of sales, total agricultural exports are still expected to set records for 1979-80," says Dr. Jones. "The total value of agricultural exports is expected to reach $36.4 billion, compared to last year's record of $32 billion."

"This represents an increase of 13 percent. Export volumes are estimated for 1979-80 at 150 million tons, far exceeding last year's record of 137.5 million tons," he adds. Wheat exports are still expected to surpass last year's by more than 10 percent and to total 36.1 million tons. Feed grain exports are projected at a record 65.9 million tons, compared to last year's 60.2 million tons. Soybean sales abroad are forecast at 22.2 million tons, up from last year's record 20.5 million tons.

The largest purchaser of U.S. grains and soybeans again will be Japan, with imports from the U.S. surpassing those of the U.S.S.R. every year.

Other leading markets for U.S. grains and soybeans this year are the European economic community, Latin America and Eastern Europe.

Based on current projections, Mexico, China, Egypt and Spain are expected to import more U.S. grains than any other country.
